Once completed and signed, the form and all supporting information should be sent to your nearest OEH office. APPENDIX V – Methodology for the relocation process for the Narrawolga axe grinding groove from the temporary site to the Willow Tree Visitor Information Centre

A refined version of the original move as described in the ACHMP (2007) will be used for the relocation process.

1. A copy of the Condition Reports and photographic record will be provided to Nungaroo LALC. Members of the Nungaroo LALC should access the temporary site prior to the relocation to plan the placement of the grinding groove slabs. Willow Tree Visitor Information Centre can then be prepared for the delivery of each of the grinding groove stones. It is highly recommended that sites are ready and labelled for each grinding groove slab’s arrival to ensure a smooth installation and no temporary placement of these items.

2. Representatives of Nungaroo LALC should be present at all stages of the relocation process.

3. Each slab will be re-identified with its archaeological record and photographed by an archaeologist with a representative of Nungaroo LALC prior to the relocation.

4. Each slab would be carefully moved by the appropriate machinery (provided by Werris Creek Colliery) and conveyed by truck (provided by Nungaroo LALC) to Willow Tree Visitor Information Centre. It is recommended that the truck has a layer of crusher dust (available at the temporary site) or equivalent to support the slab weight to minimise the chance of cracking. Multiple trips (or a large truck) are recommended to ensure the slabs do not damage each other during their transport.

5. Once placed in the final locations at the Willow Tree Visitor Centre, each slab would be examined for its condition, damage, etc. Details of which should be recorded by the archaeologist and the Condition Reports, adjusted if necessary, to reflect their final status on delivery.

6. All slabs should be placed in an inclined position in a porous gravel mix.

7. Upon completion of the transfer of all of the slabs to the Willow Tree Visitor Centre, the archaeologist should prepare a short report of the procedure, including copies of the Condition Reports and a photographic record of the events.
